Texas is known as “The Lone Star State,” signifying Texans’ solidarity in declaring independence from Mexico. This sense of unity and camaraderie captures the spirit of the ancient Greeks and Romans back in their day, as well as what the Texas State Junior Classical League strives for.

As Lucretius once said, “We are each of us angels with only one wing, and we can only fly embracing one another.”

Si vis amari, ama.

“If you wish to be loved, love.”

~Seneca
Dum inter homines sumus, colamus humanitatem.

“As long as we are among humans, let us be humane.”

~Seneca
Will: "I want to increase membership in order to expose more Latin students to the greatness of JCL."

Hunter: "My campaign is based around bringing more Latin spirit."

Isabella: "My goal is to pursue excellence and continue the excellence that is occurring right now."

Karen: "As Treasurer, I would prolong the greatness that I see in this program and hopefully improve it even more."

John: "Having competed at Di at the national level... I am able to contribute valuable insight into the nature of the competition, as well as [work] towards improvement."

Carl: "When elected I will work to make the Classical Civ. contests more appealing and less scary for those of us who have never done them before."

Lexi: "As an artist, I want to help inspire other students... I just want to spread the JCLove and spirit."
Costume Contest (females)
"The whole is greater than the sum of its parts."

~Aristotle
